EATING CORNDODGERS [From Our Regular Correspondent.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21.—I( is a singular fact that cornmeal is not used for bread-making to any important extent outside of America. Repeated efforts have been made to introduce cornbread as a staple article of diet with the people of other countries, but with indifferent success.

One of the features of the last Paris Exposition was the restaurant at which the old Southern mammy made corndodgers and pone and hoscakes. The French people, as well as exposition visitors of other nationalities, patronized the cornbread restaurant very liberally, and it was hoped that as a result of the exposition the demand for American corn abroad would be greatly increased. But this hope was not realized and the European peasant still clings to his blackbread, made of rye flour.

Recent efforts put forth by a number of American women at Pretoris, in the Transvaal, to introduce the products of Indian corn into that country, appear to have been more successful than early efforts in Europe.

STOKES TO SEEK OFFICE

Stokes would take the stump for her husband.

Jacob Panken, who has run regularly for the Assembly for several years, said at a conference on Friday that he wanted to withdraw in favor of Mr. Stokes. The penination was made unanimous.

This district is considered one of the strongest fields of socilaism in the sity. It is bounded by Stanton, Henry, Chrystie and Clinton Streets, being altogether east of the Bowery. It comes, however, within the zone of influence dominated by, the Sullivan clan. At elections the Tammany manuaually has votes to spare.

Mr. Stokes could not be found to-day. It was said at Socialist headquarters, 313 Grand Street, that he had accepted the homination.
